

CONGRATULATIONS TO
DR. GERALDINE KNATZ
NEWLY ELECTED TO THE
NATIONAL ACADEMY OF ENGINEERING

USC Viterbi

GERALDINE KNATZ

The USC Viterbi School of Engineering is proud to announce that Geraldine Knatz (MS '77, PhD '79), lecturer in the Sonny Astani Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering, has been elected to the National Academy of Engineering, one of the highest professional honors accorded an engineer.

Dr. Knatz is the former executive director of the Port of Los Angeles, a position she held from 2006 through 2013. There, she championed the Clean Trucks Program and helped revitalize the Wilmington and San Pedro waterfronts.

Her areas of research interest are strategic planning, transportation planning, and air emissions from maritime sources.
